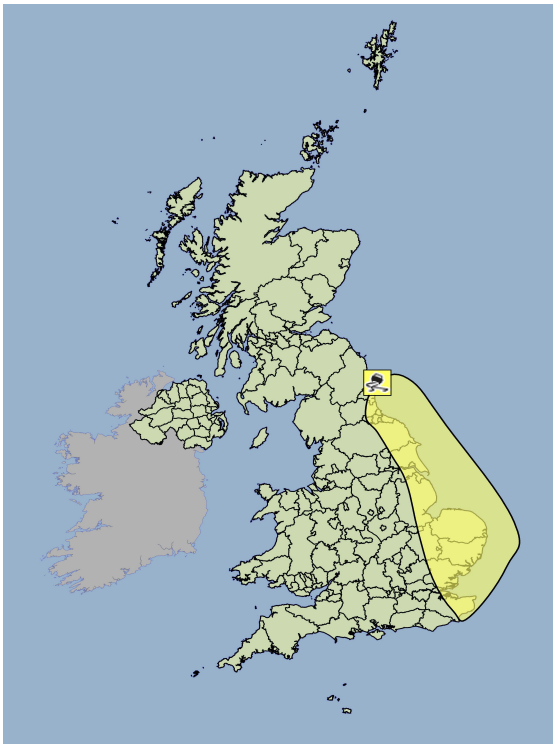
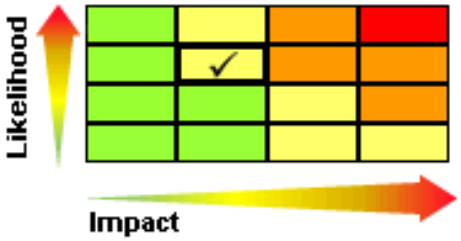
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
A band of rain, sleet and snow showers is currently pushing south across many eastern areas of England. Much clearer weather is expected to follow this evening which will allow temperatures to quickly fall below freezing, with ice forming on untreated surfaces. Later in the night, rain, sleet or snow showers may return to coastal parts of Norfolk, perhaps exacerbating the ice risk here.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Ice

Valid from 18:00 on Sun, 01st Feb 2015 until 10:00 on Mon, 02nd Feb 2015

Daytime showers will clear away to the south through Sunday afternoon and evening. Clearing skies following across all parts will allow both air and road temperatures to quickly fall below freezing. Icy stretches are likely to form on untreated roads and pavements.

As a result, the public should be aware of the risk of tricky conditions.
